WEDNESDAY MORNING, AUGUST 14, 1867. [From the Southern Presbyterian.] The Last Hope of the Church and the World. BY MEY, DR. J. I. GIRARDEAU, OF CHARLESTON, S. C.

Thou who from Olive's brow did rise, In splendid triumph to the skies, Before the rapt disciples 'ques, Lord Jesus, quickly come! For thy appearance all things pray, All nature sighs at thy delay, 'Thy people cry, 'mo longer stay' — Lord Jesus, quickly come!

Hear thou the whole creation's groau,
The burdened creatures' plaintive mean,
The cry of deserts wild and lone,
Lord Jesus, quickly come!
See signals of distress unfurled
By States on stormy billows hurled:
The Pole-star of a shipwrecked world,
Lord Jesus, quickly come!

Hush the fierce blast of war's alarms,
The tocsin's toil, the clash of arms,
Incarast Love, exert thy charms—
Lord Jesus, quickly come!
Walk once again upon the face
Of this sad earth's tempestuous seas,
And still the waves, O Prince of Peace;
Lord Jeshs, quickly come! Lo! thy fair Bride, with garments torn, Of her celestial radiance shorn, Upturns her face with watching worn—Lord Jesus, quickly come! Her trickling ears, her pitcous cries. Her struggles, face and agonies, Appeal to thy deep sympathies—Lord Jesus, quickly come!

By doubts and sorrows inly pressed,
By fees beleaguered and oppressed,
Hear the strong plea of her unrest—
Lord Jesus, quickly come!
Hope of the sacramental host,
Their only glory, joy and beast,
Without thy advent all is lost—
Lord Jesus, quickly come!

Flush the dark firmament afar, And let thy fixming sign speer,
Shine forth, O lustrous morning star,
Lord Jesus, quickly come!
Break through the lowering clouds of night,
Put these sepulchral shades to flight; Fisch out, O resurrection light, Lord Jesus, quickly come!

Come, with embettled cherubim,
Come, with the shout of seraphim,
Lord Jesus, quickly come!
Come, on thy sest of sedant cloud,
Come, with the archangel's trumpet loud,
Come, Saviour let the heavens be bowed,
Lord Jesus, quickly come!

And when the astonished heavens shall fice, When powers of earth and hell to thee Shall bend the reverential knee,
In that great day of doom,
Be ower the happy lot to stand
Among the white-robed, ransomed band,
And hear thee say, with outstretched hand,
"Ye blessed children, come!"

New Orleans Market.

NEW ORLEANS, August 9.—Corron—The market to-day has exhibited about the same features that characterized the movement yesterday. The offerings were limited throughout, most of the favorite lists being held back in obedience to owners' instructions, and as the quality of the assortment on sale afforded httle inducements to buyers, the principal portion of the business—800 bales—has been confined to odds and ends, generally intended for the filling up of previously unexecuted orders. There were several orders for staple cotton, but as above indicated, their execution was prevented by the inability of parties to find suitable descriptions. Prices indicated no material alteration, and although still attended with irregularity, we give the subjoined quotations as approximating the figures actually paid to-day: Orleans 20a22½c; Good Ordinary 23a24c; Low Middling 25%s—, and Middling 27%a28c. The sales for the past three days comprise 3260 bales, making a total for the week of 5260 bales, against 4390 last week, and 4600 the week before. The receipts proper during the past week, excluding the arrivals from Mobile, Florida and Texas, which we included in their respective sjatements, emurace 1116 bales, against 1089 last week, shewing an increase of 27 bales. The reports for the week comprise 5365 bales, and the subject of the past three days comprise 5365 bales, and the subject of the past three days comprise 5365 bales, and the subject of the past three days comprise 5365 bales, against 1089 last week, shewing an increase of 27 bales. The reports for the week comprise 5365 bales, and the subject of the past three days comprise 5365 bales, and the subject of the past three days comprise 5365 bales, against 1089 last week, and 1088 to foreign ports. Statemant of controls. The war between the citizens and the managers of the People's and Tower Grove and Lafayette horse railroad is rapidly approaching a crisis. In a day or two, if both parties remain stubborn, we may look for something more serious than a simple assault and battery case. Such a result is deeply to be deplored, and we take this occasion to warn the conservators of the peace and the directors of the six cent railroads to be on their guard. We think we can observe in the resolute determination of the people indications clearly showing that they will not much longer be tolerated. If the railroad managers are right in the position they have taken, let them satisfy the people of the fact by the production of law and evidence, and we have no doubt that the well disposed citizens will aid them in maintaining their rights. That a vast majority of the citizens regard the advance in the rate of fare by these companies as illegal and unwarranted—in direct [From the St. Louis Democrat of Tuesday.] and the advance in the rate of lare by mess panies as illegal and unwarranted—in direct ation of the terms of their charters, and as an unpt to extort money from the poor people who compelled to ride in the cars, we firmly best. We do not pretend to decide the legal quest, but we think a decision by the proper tributional settle the whole matter in a day. We nals would settle the whole matter in a day. We helieve that if any respectable court should decide that the road managers had the legal right to increase the car fare to six cents, the people would submit to it without a murmur. It would certainly be good policy for the companies to obtain such a decision, and to re-establish the old rate until it is obtained. There is but one way in which the people of this country can be fought successfully, and that is with the wespons of truth, law and common sense. The attempt to coerce them into a measure which they believe to be illegal, is sure to end in disaster. No corporation, however powerful, can override the multitude—especially where that corporation is wholly dependent upon the masses for support, in a pecuniary sense. Even when clearly in the right, it will not do for any body of men to run counter to the wishes of the people, who are their patrons.

We know that the managers of the horse roads are fully satisfied that they have the law on their sate; but still their mode of enforcing their demand is very unpopular, and, in our humble opinion, impolitic. It displays a stubborness that cannot fail to lead to disagreeable results and end disastrously to themselves.

Testerday there was lively skirmishing all along the line of Fourth street road, and a number of proched battles were fought between the citizens and the conductors. Sometimes the citizens were pitched out, and sometimes the conductor was pitched into. On the whole the six-centers got the worst of it, although nobody was seriously hurt.

A number of arrests were made by constants. pitched out. and sometimes the conductor was pitched into. On the whole the six-centers got the worst of it, although nobody was seriously hurt. A number of arrests were made by constables on complaints filed by citizens. Justice Jecko had four cases against conductors on his docket, Justice Lawrence one, and there were several others before other justices. The Chief of Police made an arrest in person of a conductor and a citizen who were trying to put each other out. A Main street merchant, on being overpowered by numbers, coolly laid down on the seat, and was tenderly carried out by four six-cent men. An excountry official who is opposed to the advance in fare, but a friend to the conductors, was ordered from a ctrly a citizen who mistock him for one of the shoulder-strikers of the car, and he resented the indignity by a vigorous blow with his fist. He was arrested but subsequently released.

Constable Berger was kept on the trot hunting up conductors, and arresting then for assault and battery. He gobbled John North, Fred. H. Reed, Robert B. Kersteven, and another conductor, all of whom will be tried before Justice Jecko. A citizen appeared before Justice Lawrence, and complained that he was riding in a Fourth street.

Robert R. Hersteven, and another conductor, all of whom will be tried before Justice Jecko. A citizen appeared before Justice Lawrence, and complained that he was riding in a Fourth street car, when the conductor demanded six cents fare. He refused to pay more than five cents. The conductor turned to a great double-fisted fellow, who was sitting in the car among the passengers, and pointing to the citizen, said: "Do your duty." Big Fist, thereupon, seized the citizen, and lifting him with as much ease as Hercules raised Antesus, conveyed him bodily from the car, and dropped him on the ground. From his description of this giant, it was inferred that a gang of braves had been employed by the company, and it was necessary to employ a fire-eating constable to arrest him. Constable Berger, the Samson of the constabulary of the city, belonged to another ward, and Captain-Girard was engaged in watching a millinery store on Morgan street. The next best man was sent for, and Constable Anderson was entrusted with the dangerous duty of arresting the terrible bully. He found him near Lafayette park, and brought him up alive, the man having submitted when he saw who he had to deal with. A citizen filed the following complaint for damages against the Fourth street road:

Albert C. Sheldon vs. People's Railway Company. Before Justice Lawrence. The plaintiff states that defendants are an incorporated company, owning and operating a line of horse railroad cars in the city of St. Louis; that their cars are public conveyances for passengers; that on the 5th day of Angust, 1867, plaintiff went on car No. 14 on said defendants line, paid his legal fare of five cents, but before reaching his destination, and while he was quietly occupying his place as a passenger, he was unlawfully, forcibly, and violently ejected from said car by the conductor employed by defendants, assisted by another person unknown to plaintiff. Wherefore he claims damages of fifty dollars, for which he brings suit, with his costs.

In the morning there was a blockade of cars near Fourth and Chestnut streets, on account of a passenger refusing to pay more than five cents. A crowd of four or five hundred people collected to witness the fun, and half a dozen or more cars were delayed by the imbroglio. Mayor Thomas went on the car to see what was going on, but did not interfere. The passengers in the car took it good naturedly, and so did the conductor. After laughing and talking over the matter, the conductor concluded to sacrifice a copper for the sake of peace, and the blockade was raised.

A German merchant was put out later in the day, and he had the conductor arrested fer assault and battery.

These squabbles from day to day are getting to be very annoying. We understand that the Street Railroad Commissioner intends prosecuting the Fourth-street company for failing to fulnil the regulations requiring the cars to be run at regular intervals. We noticed that few passengers travelled on the Fourth-street and Tower Grove cars yesterday, and it is but reasonable to presume that the number will grow "smaller, and beautifully less" until the conductors are instructed to receive five cents for single fares.

In this one cent war the conductors are placed between two firees. If they disobey orders, they are liable to be discharged; and if they orders, they are liable to be discharged; and if they orders, they are arrested for assault and bettery.

DEFER NOT THE USE OF RODRIGUE'S

MANY WHOSE DECLINING HEALTH, WHICH MANY WHOSE DECLINING HEALTH, WHICH was precarious, and their recovery despaired of, do now with grateful emanations to the All-Wise Disposer, offer heartfelt thanks for this timely remedy. During the short time since its public introduction into use, the Originator has most happily realized her most sanguine expectations in manifestations issuing from all quarters of its unparalelled curative properties, for in no case where it has been administered with regard to directions, and persevered in, has it falled in its beneficial results.

In resorting to this remedy, the invalid can depend upon the safety of every article in its preparation, and while it accelerates the healthful reactions of each organ and vessel, the mind can be perfectly free from apprehension of any subtle ingredient being insinuated into its composition.

hension of any subtle ingredient being insinuated incomposition.

The appetite, which improves under its administration, is at liberty to indulge prudently in whatever inutriment is palatable, digestive and wholesome, and while it is no more than proper to avoid exposure to fresh cold, no fear need be entertained of any liability under this course of treatment to induce it. It is a pleasant AROMATIC CORDIAL, quite agreeable to the taste, and as a lung revivityer and balsam of health, it is distinguishing itself as without precedent, and we trust will, ere long, claim for itself general acclamation for its unrivalled efficacy.

I consider Chickering & Sons' Pianos superior to any in the world.

They are unrivalled for their singing qualities and for the harmonious roundness of their tons. There is a perfect homogeneity throughout all the registers. The upper notes are remarkable for a clearness and purity which I do not find in any other instrument, while the base is distinguished for power without harshness, and for a magnificent sonority.

Your Pianos are superior to any I have ever sees its this country or in Europe.

I have nover heard a tone so perfect; it yields every expression that is needed in music, and its quality is capable of change to meet every sentiment. This is a rare power, and is derived from the perfect purity of its tone, together with its sympathetic, elastic and well balanced touch. POZNANSKI.
